Doors open on redevelopment of Warrnambool Hospital

Premier Ted Baillieu, Minister for Health David Davis and Minister for Regional Cities and Major Projects Denis Napthine today officially opened the first stage of the $115 million redevelopment of South West Healthcare in Warrnambool.

"This project – one of the biggest hospital redevelopments in rural Victoria – has transformed South West Healthcare into a state-of-the-art facility to meet the healthcare needs of a rapidly growing community now and into the future," Mr Baillieu said.

The architectural theme of the new, environmentally-friendly inpatient building is "the Shipwreck Coast". Materials have been selected for their durability to weather the local environment and include references to the sea and local coastal character.
